FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CONSULTANCY CELEBRATES ITS 25TH BIRTHDAY!

Revell Research Systems recently celebrated its 25th year in business. The Exeter-based Management and Technology Consulting Practice has been providing independent and impartial advice on information technology issues since 1985.

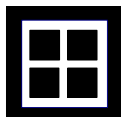

The business was established by its Managing Consultant, Alastair Revell, who is a Chartered IT Professional and native of Exeter. He said: “The last twenty-five years have been an exciting and demanding journey, which has taken us from a period when very few businesses had any PCs to a world that is now dominated by them.”

Fiona Burgess, a spokesperson for the company, said: “It is hard to believe that Microsoft Windows hadn’t been released when the consultancy was established in August 1985. We have worked with every version of Windows since.”

The firm specialises in providing computer consultancy and advice, IT service management, software development, web design and computer training to businesses across the United Kingdom and further afield.

The consultancy’s clients range in size from international companies trading across Europe to small businesses. The practice specialises in advising professional service firms.
